一、文章中英文主旨

---

中文主旨

本文围绕金融危机背景下银行业与会计准则制定机构的矛盾展开，指出银行公开为自身困境自责，私下却将矛头对准会计准则制定者，抱怨准则迫使他们报告巨额亏损；银行的游说已初见成效，导致会计准则制定机构的独立性受到损害。作者强调，独立的准则制定者是资本市场健康运行的核心，银行必须正视并处理亏损才能让体系重回正轨，而准则制定者向批评者妥协只会招致更多的让步压力。

英文主旨

This article focuses on the conflict between the banking industry and accounting standard-setters against the backdrop of the financial crisis. It points out that banks publicly blame themselves for their troubles, yet privately target accounting standard-setters, complaining that the rules force them to report enormous losses. Banks' lobbying has already worked, undermining the independence of accounting standard-setting bodies. The author emphasizes that independent standard-setters are the core of the sound operation of capital markets. Only when banks recognize and deal with losses can the banking system get back on track, and standard-setters' compromise to critics will only invite more pressure for further concessions.

三、完整原文

① Bankers have been blaming themselves for their troubles in public. Behind the scenes, they have been taking aim at someone else: the accounting standard-setters. Their rules, moan the banks, have forced them to report enormous losses, and it's just not fair. These rules say they must value some assets at the price a third party would pay, not the price managers and regulators would like them to fetch.

② Unfortunately, banks' lobbying now seems to be working. The details may be unknowable, but the independence of standard-setters, essential to the proper functioning of capital markets, is being compromised. And, unless banks carry toxic assets at prices that attract buyers, reviving the banking system will be difficult.

③ After a bruising encounter with Congress, America's Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) rushed through rule changes. These gave banks more freedom to use models to value illiquid assets and more flexibility in recognizing losses on long-term assets in their income statements. Bob Herz, the FASB's chairman, cried out against those who "question our motives." Yet bank shares rose and the changes enhance what one lobbying group politely calls "the use of judgment by management."

⑤ It was banks that were on the wrong planet, with accounts that vastly overvalued assets.
